

Fred Mishler Jr.

April 15, 1923 - October 23, 2022

Fred Mishler, Jr., 99 of Slippery Rock, PA passed away on Sunday, October 23, 2022 at Newhaven Court at Clearview in Butler. He was born on April 15, 1923 in Johnstown, PA, the son of the late Fred Mishler, Sr., and Grace (Waugoman) Mishler.

Fred began his newspaper career with the Johnstown Tribune-Democrat, moving later to the Lancaster, PA New Era and then to The Pittsburgh Press as copy editor and headline writer. He later became News Editor of The Pittsburgh Press, a position he held until his retirement in 1985.

In 1949 he married Dr. Elenor Jane Fleming of Indiana, PA. She practiced medicine under the professional name of Dr. E. Jane Fleming. She died in 2008.

Fred was an Army veteran of World War II having served for almost three years in the China-Burma, India war theater. He and his wife loved to play golf, enjoyed traveling in their motor home and had a deep love for animals. They were members of the Slippery Rock United Methodist Church.

Surviving are two adult children, David A. Mishler (and wife, Vonda) of Slippery Rock, PA and Patricia Mishler Wolfe (and husband, Daniel) of Pearland, TX. Also surviving are several nieces, nephews and cousins.

There will be a private graveside service at Slippery Rock Cemetery at a later date.
