“ Dear Meals and Gray Families,
I read about the loss of your loved one " William ". I know you miss him very much. There is little that can be said at this time that will make the pain go away. I read a brochure on Hope for our Loved Ones that have died. It has comforting words from the Bible. The url address is: <http://wol.jw.org/en/wol/d/r1/lp-e/1101994001>
I hope that this brings your family some comfort. If I can be of any further help please feel free to write me. Sincerely Daniel Harrington

“ Kash was the youngest of my 5 grandchildren. Being the youngest and smallest, at play he had a hard time keeping up with the older ones because of his little short legs. He'd be trailing behind, but not by far. One of my sweetest and cutest memories of him is that he didn't like toe jam. One day while he ran at play, he stopped long enough to hop on the couch and clean between his toes and jump back down to play. As he reached his teens years, he quickly towered over me, but I still remember those little short legs. He was so sincerely loved.

Kelly, you'll need your friends and family now to help you get through this hurtful and troubling time, but for the true strength and comfort that you'll need, call upon the Lord. Speaking from experience, as much as you think now that you won't get through this, you can. My prayer for you is that your painful hurt leaves and your tears quickly dry. God bless.
